

SYMPOSIUM ON CHILDREN'S MENTAL HEALTH

Alternatives to Coercive Care:

Relationship-Based, Collaborative, Trauma-Informed Treatment

October 31, 2014
9:00AM – 3:45PM

Schedule

- 8:30-9:00 Registration
- 9:00-9:30 Welcome & Introductions
- 9:30-10:45 Robert Marvin, Ph.D.
-The Power of Attachments & Relationships
- BREAK
- 11:00-12:15 Dewey Cornell, Ph.D.
-The Value of Collaboration and Engagement:
Threat Assessment as a Violence Prevention Strategy
- 12:15-1:00 LUNCH
- 1:00-2:15 William Kellibrew
-Values & Healing
- BREAK
- 2:30-3:30 Eileen Ryan, D.O.
-Necessary but Not Sufficient: Turning a Model
into Real-World Practice
- 3:30pm Closing Remarks

COMMONWEALTH CENTER FOR CHILDREN & ADOLESCENTS

In Recognition of 40 Years
Serving Virginia's Youth and Families

Location:
Best Western
Waynesboro Inn & Suites
Conference Center

109 Apple Tree Lane
Waynesboro, Virginia 22980
(540) 942-1100
www.bwwaynesboro.com

Symposium registration is required
by Friday-10/10/14.
Space is limited.

Conference registration includes lunch.

Cost: Free!

To register, contact
Pam White- CCCA Administration, 540/332-2102,
or email
pam.white@dbhds.virginia.gov.

COMMONWEALTH CENTER FOR CHILDREN AND ADOLESCENTS
P.O. Box 4000
Staunton VA 24402-4000
General Information: 540/332-2100

Part of Virginia's community-based continuum of care.

Virginia Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services

SYMPOSIUM ON CHILDREN'S MENTAL HEALTH

October 31, 2014
9:00AM – 3:45PM

Treatment of children's mental health issues has long focused on contingency management as a behavioral change agent. While effective in some settings, this approach may change behavior without helping the child and others to understand it, and in some cases simply elicits short-term compliance.

Like many mental health treatment providers, CCCA has moved from contingency management to a model of care based in the primacy of relationships, the effectiveness of collaborative engagement, and the critical need to recognize and respond to the trauma that so many children have experienced and that directly affects their thoughts, feelings, and behaviors.

This symposium brings together national experts in children's mental health, attachment, youth violence, and healing after trauma to discuss the value of treatment that is relationship-based, collaborative, and trauma-informed, and to consider the ways those care elements can be reflected in acute psychiatric hospital-based treatment.

Robert Marvin, Ph.D. is a developmental and clinical psychologist, Professor Emeritus at the University of Virginia School of Medicine, and Director of the Ainsworth Attachment Clinic and The Circle of Security® Network. Dr. Marvin has developed and tested numerous attachment-related procedures that are used in basic and clinical research, and in clinical practice.

Dewey Cornell, Ph.D. is a forensic clinical psychologist and Bunker Professor of Education in the Curry School of Education at the University of Virginia. Dr. Cornell is Director of the U.Va. Va. Youth Violence Project and a faculty associate of the Institute of Law, Psychiatry, and Public Policy. He is currently conducting a federally-funded study of school climate and bullying in more than 700 Virginia secondary schools.

William Kellibrew IV is an advocate for human, civil, children's and victims' rights. Mr. Kellibrew experienced tremendous challenges as a boy, including sexual victimization, witnessing the murder of his mother and brother, and homelessness. He found strength, hope, and recovery through friends, family members, and treatment providers. In 2011, Mr. Kellibrew was recognized by the White House as a "Champion of Change."

Eileen Ryan, D.O. is a physician who is board certified in general, child/adolescent, and forensic psychiatry. She is the Medical Director of the Commonwealth Center for Children & Adolescents and of the Institute of Law, Psychiatry, and Public Policy and Associate Professor of Psychiatry & Neurobehavioral Sciences at UVA Medical School. She evaluates and treats children and adolescents at CCCA and the Shenandoah Valley Juvenile Center.

COMMONWEALTH CENTER FOR CHILDREN AND ADOLESCENTS

P.O. Box 4000
Staunton VA 24402-4000
General Information: 540/332-2100

Part of Virginia's community-based continuum of care.

Virginia Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services